Preserving the history and experiences of our veterans is critical to ensure these important stories aren’t lost to history. I’m excited to announce my office is partnering with the Library of Congress to record and preserve the stories of veterans in our community. If you’re a veteran interested in sharing your experiences or are willing to help record their stories, or even want to learn more about this exciting project, call (916) 724-2575 or scan here to visit my website.
